

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

What are we?

Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC for short) is a university-wide program that prepares our students to think about writing as a skill that can be applied across all subjects and majors.

Here at York College, WAC provides resources to help integrate writing into the curriculum in every department and academic program by expanding the role of writing in the General Education curriculum, as well as developing Writing Intensive (WI) courses that are required for graduation.

Our Pedagogy

WAC is a pedagogical approach that empowers students to use writing as a tool to learn while developing their writing and communication skills within their specific discipline under the guidance of field experts. As such, faculty across the curriculum are integral to students' development as writers in their disciplines.

Why Include Writing in Your Courses?

- ✓ Encourage students' critical thinking & engagement
- ✓ Deepen students' understanding of course content
- ✓ Foster student's disciplinary writing skills

WAC Resources

WI Faculty Seminar

WI Student Advisement

Infosheets & Citation Guides

Writing Strategies Videos

How can WAC help?

- ✓ Feedback on WI requirements & proposals
- ✓ Support with integrating writing into courses
- ✓ Enhance WAC strategies through workshops